Re: Paint in street at Phelps & Fort

On Thursday, June 17, 1982, the Sewer Maintenance Crew, #552, noticed what appeared to be paint in the street at Phelps and Fort. Steve Short and I investigated the area and noticed that the substance was the same yellow as the building belonging to Paul Mueller Co. was being painted. The two painters said that it had rained while they were painting and some of the paint had been washed into the street. I contacted Ray Stanton, of Safety and Security at Paul Mueller Co., about the spill. He was advised to clean it up and report any future spills to this office.

On Friday, June 18, 1982, I checked the corner of Phelps & Fort and the paint in the street had been removed.
